

Our school is participating in the new Five to Twelve Study!

Five to Twelve is an important new national research study which wants to find out how children are getting on at school and at home in the post-pandemic period.

The study will follow a group of children from across the country, as well as their families, through primary school. Some children in year 1 at our school have been selected to take part!

The parents or carers of children invited to take part will receive a letter through the post with more information. There will also be a survey for the child's teacher.

You do not have to take part, but it will help the study if you do!

Visit the study website at www.fivetotwelve.org.uk or scan the QR code.

The study is funded by the Department for Education and delivered by the National Centre for Social Research.
